

Question: What could be more fun than exploring Paris and the French countryside with new and old friends?

Answer: Creating and publishing a collective memoir of that experience!!

“Creating Memories Workshop”
FRANCE 2009
With Camille Crawford Day and the staff of La Bonne Etoile Artist Retreat
August 30—September 13, 2009

Haven't you ever had the great intention of keeping a travel log and journal on a great trip, only to have that idea go swishing out the window on the first day? Well, not this time.....your Creating Memories Workshop will have two components to it:

1. Everyone enjoying every minute of your fun packed trip, and this trip is designed to create memories in a BIG way
2. Contributing to the collective memoir of the trip, either in writing or photography with tips and help from Camille and the staff of La Bonne Etoile

Travel log, photobook, reflective thoughts, compiled by you and your companions.....signed, sealed, and delivered to your door just weeks after your return.

Camille Crawford Day, Candy as she is affectionately called by her friends and family, is a familiar face to La Bonne Etoile. After attending an en plein air painting workshop in 2006, she returned to study again in 2007. This year we are delighted to have her return as staff to lead our creative writing “Creating Memories Workshop”. A professional painter and popular art instructor she has also discovered a love for writing and journaling, presently preparing a book for publication. As a director of the Better Hometown program, her experience with creating entertaining cultural activities for groups and her love of this region in France insures this workshop will be a fun memory packed two weeks.

Limited to 7 participants

To enhance your workshop studies, the in-home and restaurant dinners, as well as all the excursions have been chosen to help you experience the local flavors of France that are not evident from a tour bus. This particular region of France, while a very big French tourism destination, isn't as highly visited by English speaking tourists, so, guides will be added to our group from time to time. The cities chosen are not so large that anyone who chooses to slip away and wander will not feel intimidated.

Whether you return to the states exhausted, having taken part in every class, excursion, and every extra minute in the studio or balance your stay with rest and relaxation as top priority, our hopes are that you leave La Bonne Etoile inspired. Inspired in your heart and your spirit, having acquired new skills in creativity and foreign travel

Just a few of the highlights and excursions include:

Provins - The ancient fortified city of Provins sits atop a ridge overlooking the Seine valley and the Champagne chalklands, roughly equidistant from both Paris and Troyes. The town has a famous outline, dominated by a tower and the dome of Eglise St-Quiriace. Provins' role as an important center of commerce was confirmed in the 12C when it became one of the two capitals of the County of Champagne.

Troyes - is a charming, medieval city. We will begin the day with a guided walking tour with an English-speaking tour guide. You have a choice to explore the numerous museums and churches in the ancient city or to sketch within helping distance of the instructor.

Sens - This rather small town was important well before Caesar came to Gaul. The Cathedral St-Etienne is Sens' outstanding glory. Begun before 1140 it is the oldest of the great Gothic cathedrals and the attached museum houses the most outstanding Gallo-Roman collection in France.

Epernay or Reims - It will be the decision of the group whether to spend the day touring the champagne region around Epernay or visit the Cathedral in Reims with the memorable smiling angel.

Château de Vaux le Vicomte - This beautiful château is the precursor of Versailles and is a favorite of those that know French history. Rick Steves rates it in the top ten of the most underrated sites in Europe. We will continue our day to Moret sur Loing where Thomas Sisley painted and enjoy a dinner at La Palette, a wonderful restaurant.

Brocating - During the summer months, France's countryside is filled with local festivals and small brocantes. These are a combination flea market/ garage sale/ festival with a mixture of local citizens and professional merchants. Going to the brocantes every weekend seems to be a French tradition; you will see Parisians out for the weekend and locals, all looking for the treasures to be found. This is a real treat that is always a hit with Americans though probably not on any tours.

Market Day - The weekly market in Bray-sur-Seine will be scheduled for those that would like to browse and take pictures. This particular market is a real treat, even for those familiar with European open-air markets.

Paris - This three-day excursion will be the wrap up for the workshop. You name it, we will plan to do it!!

And much, much more.

Please feel free to visit our website www.labonneetoile.com and the director's personal website www.kippyhammond.com to get a great sense of the adventure that we are planning for you.

3250 Euros per student The price in US $ will be frozen at the exchange rate on the date when final balance is due. The exchange rate as of 12/9/2008 yielded a US $ amount of $4095
